Anglican Care attracts national attention with two Better Practice Awards

Anglican Care has won national acclaim with two Better Practice Awards from the Aged Care Standards and Accreditation Agency Ltd, across its eight Hunter and Central Coast residential care facilities.

The annual Better Practice Awards recognise quality improvements and better practice within the Aged Care sector and serve as exemplars to encourage improvement and innovation across the industry.

Accreditation Agency Chairman, Mr Jim Harrowell AM, congratulated Anglican Care for its recent initiatives, including the innovative 'Cameos for Empathy in Dementia Care' project and the implementation of the 'Memory Magic' program which was recently awarded a High Commendation at the 2011 Positive Living in Aged Care State Awards.

"Their efforts are testament to the high quality care in Australia's residential aged care industry and they are deserving of recognition," Mr Harrowell said.

"The managers and staff at Anglican Care are going above and beyond in providing the very best care for their residents."

Anglican Care's CEO, Anne Maree Hodgson said Anglican Care is thrilled to receive recognition for the projects.

"The implementation of such initiatives allows Anglican Care to fulfill its vision of providing excellent care and quality lifestyles for our residents, clients and staff," said Ms Hodgson.

The Accreditation Agency is an internationally recognised independent body, responsible for promoting high quality services in residential aged care.
