

Christmas comes handmade at 34th Art and Craft Exhibition this weekend!

Newcastle Herald cartoonist, Peter Lewis will be the special guest at the twilight opening of the Anglican Care Auxiliary's 34th Art and Craft Exhibition and Sale this weekend.

The Art and Craft Exhibition attracts more than 100 exhibitors annually to the Anglican Care CA Brown village with artists from Newcastle, Lake Macquarie and the Hunter Valley showcasing their work. Maitland Art Gallery Director, Margaret Sivyer will be on hand to judge the paintings which will feature for sale across the weekend.

Over the past 33 years, more than $250,000 has been raised by a group of dedicated Anglican Care Auxiliary volunteers, with funds assisting frail residents in Anglican Care's nursing homes and hostels.

The three day program of events includes craft demonstrations, China painting, children's clothes and a Christmas stall with items hand crafted by Anglican Care's staff, volunteers, residents and their families.

Celebrating 55 years of providing excellent care and quality lifestyle, Anglican Care will also be holding a historic photographic exhibition and afternoon tea in the Chapel from 2.00pm this Saturday.

The annual exhibition will open its doors from 2.30pm this Friday 14th October with a range of arts and crafts for sale.

A long-term supporter and regular Anglican Care guest speaker, Mr Lewis will officially open the fair at Anglican Care's CA Brown Village Chapel from 5pm.
